The Line Still Down. Sleighing Out South.

YREKA, Dec. 4.—The snow storm which prevailed yesterday continued until 10 o'clock last night, when it partially cleared off until about daylight this morning, when it commenced snowing again, and all day it has alternated between cloudy and squally spells. There is now eighteen inches on the ground and it is not thawing any. In the mountain the snow is reported from three to four feet deep. At [illegible] M. the telegraph wire went [illegible] in [illegible].

Sleighing [illegible] and all sorts of turnouts are seen in our streets. The stage went south on runners this morning. Cloudy and mild to-night, with indications of more snow.

YOUR MAIL.

SUGGESTIONS HOW TO FACILITATE POSTAL MATTERS.

The Fat Contributor is dissatisfied with some of the decisions of the Post Office Department, and submits a few improved rulings of his own concoction:

Monthly magazines published weekly, must be charged letter postage when delivered daily. Powder magazines, except to regular subscribers, are permitted to frank their reports.

If a stamp is [illegible] to a letter, [illegible] If however the postage is overpaid, letter rip!

If you feel any doubt about a paper going with a one cent stamp, have two sent.

Seeds can go through the mail as merchandise. The postmasters are cautioned against allowing any old seeds to go through their mails, however.

Signs cannot be sent without paying letter postage, three cents on every letter.

Calico prints, any foreign prince reprints and footprints, all go as printed matter and pay tax accordingly. Vaccine matter must be properly (pock) marked.

Shirts may be mailed at the rate of two cents for every two ounces of shirt. If the owner's name is on the shirt, letter postage must be charged. This rule is indelible.

A subscriber residing in the county in which a paper is printed can take the paper provided he pays in advance and urges his neighbor to subscribe. If he does not live in the county in which he resides and the paper is not printed in the same county where it has its press-work done, then the county must pay double postage on the man, we mean a two cent county must be affixed to every postage.

Editors of newspapers and their families shall be allowed to pass free in the mails.

Postmasters shall be responsible for the payment of all subscriptions on newspapers sent to persons residing within three miles of any postoffice. If any person refuses to take the paper, the postmaster shall be compelled to read it.

Postage on newspapers shall be paid or not, at the option of the publishers and subscribers. If prepaid, the payment may be made at any time most convenient to either, and may be either in cash or county or city profits. The rate per ounce shall be determined by the editor, and the weight shall be calculated at not less than forty four ounces to the pound.

A ROYAL LETTER.—Our readers may remember that the Queen of Portugal and her two sons while bathing recently were overwhelmed by a rising tide and narrowly escaped with their lives—the fortitude and presence of mind of the Queen only preventing the destruction of the two princes. The King was greatly moved by the incident, and the journals of Lisbon have published a curious letter despatched by him to his royal consort, wherein he says:

Desiring to give your Majesty a public testimony of the respect and gratitude I feel towards you for the courage which you recently displayed in assisting with the greatest devotedness and manly spirit in saving the precious existence of the Prince Royal and Infante Don Alfonso, our august and dear sons who having been overtaken by the waves on the shore of Mexilhoeiro, near the town of Cascaes, were in imminent danger of drowning, and wishing as an affectionate father and as king to give your Majesty an authentic proof of the great value I attach to that signal service rendered to such dear pledges of my heart and of the future happiness of our realms, I present to your Majesty a gold medal as a distinction and prize accorded to merit, philanthropy and courage.

This is probably the only instance on record where a husband, royal or plebeian, thought it necessary to reward a wife for an instinctive service to her own offspring. This remarkable epistle concluded as follows: Very high and very excellent Princess D. Maria Pia of Savoy, Queen of Portugal, my dear well beloved and highly esteemed spouse, may our Lord hold your Majesty's person in his holy keeping.

THE GREAT EXPOSITION

LAST HOURS AND CLOSING SCENES OF THE VIENNA SHOW—AN IMMENSE THRONG OF VISITORS TAKING THEIR LAST LOOK AT THE [illegible] — REMOVING THE BUILDINGS — WHY THE EXHIBITION WAS A FINANCIAL FAILURE.

Correspondence N. Y. World.

VIENNA, Nov. 4.—As All Souls' day and the Saturday preceding it are great holidays in the Austrian calendar, and as they fell this year on the 1st and 2d of November, it was determined instead of closing the Exhibition on Friday, as at first intended, to keep it open until Sunday evening. Notwithstanding the wet, unpleasant weather that has prevailed during the past week, the number of visitors was unusually large, ranging from 30,000 to 70,000 a day. Persons who had been indifferent to the grand show during the summer [illegible] seemed anxious to have a look at it before it was too late. Besides the several regiments of soldiers and the scholars of many public schools were offered tickets at greatly reduced prices, and in some cases free, and they eagerly took advantage of this privilege. During October free lectures were daily given in the Jury Pavilion, chiefly upon industrial subjects, and the lecture hall was always crowded. Up to the last day the general aspect of the Exhibition was the same that it has worn all along. Strauss' music continued to enliven the afternoons in front of the Egyptian Palace, and the Hungarian band played daily near the rotunda. In the Toy Pavilion the paper flying birds kept on darting about. In the main building trumpeters would, as usual, step out every few minutes from German clocks, blow their blast and retire. The negroes still vended their tom and jerry, the cig[illegible] machine continued to grind out its vile products, and the shrewd Turk still supplied his numerous customers with tobacco supposed to have come from the land of harems and the Koran, but having a strange likeness to the common stuff usually sold in Vienna. In the Machinery Hall there was up to the last moment the hum of whirling wheels, and occasionally the startling blow of the steam hammer, the American sand-blast machine engraved initials on watch glasses, the needle-threader threaded needles, the lithographer in consideration of five cents adorned the not always overclean pocket handkerchiefs of his customers with a huge picture of the rotunda and dome, and the deft glass spinner kept on transforming her brittle material into a pliable thread finer than hair—all exactly as usual. The only apparent difference was that the buildings were more thronged, that there were more things offered for sale, and that buyers seemed more ready to pay the enormous prices asked for the sake of carrying away some souvenir of the great occasion.

The outside shows in the Prater remained much the same as ever, except, perhaps, that with the waning season their criers waxed more eloquent both in speech and gesture. The man with the nine-foot beard had indeed departed for a more lucrative field, and with him had disappeared La belle Ivonnaise, who under cover of her long, queenly robe used to stand on a stool to look a giantess. But Miss Heenan, the great American fat woman, was still there, as well as other fat women, her rivals. And the Parisian talented[illegible] infants and the wolf tamer and the wax works, and the carrousels and a hundred other money traps for young people flourished as vigorously on the 2d of November as they did in May or June.

Sunday morning was as cloudy and drizzly as Friday and Saturday had been, and there seemed every prospect of the Exhibition closing, as it had begun, in rain. The bad weather, however, did not deter the hundred thousand persons who had determined to see the last of the great show from carrying out their purpose, and as early as nine o'clock in the morning Prater street, the great avenue of approach to the Prater itself, was thronged with vehicles and foot passengers, all moving eastwards. By noon the immense Exhibition grounds were swarming with people and every building was uncomfortably full. But the stream of visitors kept on pouring in until four o'clock, when the usual admission ceased. By that time 130,07[illegible] persons had entered. All day long, within the enclosure, everybody was on the move, rushing in at one door and out at another as if anxious to see something that until then had been neglected. And yet no one saw anything satisfactorily, such was the crowd and press, and the most lively sensation you experienced as you hurried on with the stream was the jostling of your neighbors' elbows. I can appreciate now at last how much real enjoyment the emperors and kings and Bismarcks, who were always pursued by crowds, ever got out of the Exhibition. On Sunday the floors were not as thoroughly watered as usual, and the dust that arose, filling the air and settling on the show cases, was terrible. Looking down the main gallery for a quarter of a mile or so, this dust looked like a great yellow cloud. If the crowd was denser in any one part than another, it was in the Chinese, Japanese, Turkish and Egyptian transepts, which indeed have always been a favorite resort of visitors.

The restaurants and cafes were likewise over full, and it was almost impossible to get waited upon. The supply of beer glasses was utterly insufficient, and the moment that you had emptied one some man or woman who had stood watching you would seize it and rush triumphantly up to the bar to be served.

Owing to the early approach of darkness at this season of the year the building had been closed for some days previously at 4 o'clock, although the grounds remained open to the public until 10. When the inner[illegible] horn or fog whistle which has always given the signal for shutting up blew for the last time its unmelodious blast on Sunday afternoon, the crowds that issued from every door all gathered in front of the southern or chief entrance to the rotunda, as the newspapers had announced that there would be music there. By half past four at least 100,000 persons stood waiting there, and the whole of the space between that south portal and the Kaiser and Jury pavilions were densely packed. A few [illegible] usual chairs had been arranged for the [illegible] the enterprising men who let the seats [illegible] cents apiece. But the occasional surgings of the crowd made it unpleasant and even unsafe to occupy them. It had been planned that the two bands which were present should unite in front of the rotunda, and together play the requiem of the great Exhibition. But the presence of so dense a throng of eager spectators made it impossible to effect this junction, so that only one band was at this point, while the other remained the center of a smaller gathering in front of the Art Hall. About noon the clouds had broken, and for the first time in many days the sun shone brightly. The sunset was perfectly clear, and no one who was present can ever forget, I think, how beautifully his last rays lighted up that fine facade. It was sad on this very last day of all to watch the fading light disappear and the shadows creep up from the ground to the roof and higher and higher up the dome until even the glittering jewels of its pinnacle were veiled. For some time all the great bells upon the grounds had been ringing, but their pleasant sound now ceased.

Precisely at a quarter to five the last [illegible] came out from the south door of the rotunda, and the iron shutters were let down behind them. The Exhibition was over. The band struck up Haydn's stately "Kaiser Hymn," and the [illegible] then [illegible] not without great difficulty struggled away to the gates. The crowd had listened attentively to the [illegible] but [illegible] demonstration of any kind. Not a cheer nor a groan [illegible] of the [illegible] gathered there taking their leave [illegible] this grand building, from behind which the full moon had [illegible] risen. The great gallery [illegible] known as the Kaiser [illegible], which had been reserved exclusively for the passage of persons of royal lineage—was now thrown open to all, and for a few [illegible] people thronged its purple [illegible] through the [illegible] the Prater Strasse, [illegible] one black human current [illegible] the way.

THE WORK OF DEMOLITION BEGUN—[illegible]

Monday morning at eight o'clock the gates of the enclosure were again opened, but this time not to admit the public, nor the press, but only the exhibitors or their representatives, who were to pack their goods away. I was fortunate enough to have the right of entering on this last morning. Outside of the enclosure I found several thousand of the Italian laborers who were recently employed upon the construction of the new city water works waiting in the hopes of getting a job. From time to time squads of them were admitted and set to work to clear away the many railway tracks that were long ago put down in the grounds to facilitate the moving of heavy goods from the cars under which, during the last six months, they have lain buried. The grounds themselves, so thronged the day before, were now strangely deserted, [illegible]. Hardly a soul was to be seen until you entered the main building, where the work of demolition had already begun. There were apparently very few men at work, but they seemed to accomplish a great deal in a short time. Even on all the [illegible] articles in the American transepts were packed up ready to be removed. The most gorgeous stands had been taken down, and no traces were left of them except small piles of rough boards and bits of colored cloth. Everywhere there was a confusion of packing boxes and straw and hammers and nails. The policemen present were very watchful and I was frequently challenged to show my papers. Three sets of permits were issued to exhibitors, for the withdrawal of their goods: one for things which were to be sent back to the countries from which they had come, another for those that were to be sent to some other foreign country, a third for things to be sold or to remain in Austria. Only articles of the latter class are subject to duty. At the Custom House I found that goods from America pay about two and a half times as much duty as the same goods from England. This is certainly not encouraging to our industry. It will take about a fortnight to remove all the exhibited articles, and several months more to take down the buildings and restore to the Prater its wonted appearance.

DISPOSITION TO BE MADE OF THE ROTUNDA AND BUILDINGS.

The success of exhibitors in disposing of their wares has been various, but in general it has fallen far behind their expectations. The French complain of having done nearly [illegible] Italians [illegible]. The Germans have sold hardly anything, owing in part to the extreme negligence of their agents. On the other hand the Japanese did a heavy business, and in the Italian and Danish departments the majority of the articles were sold. The graceful imitations of ancient Pompeian earthenware exhibited by the Danes were especially in great demand. In the machine halls one new invention were not only sold, but ordered over and over again forty or fifty times. Few pictures were disposed of.

The Austrian schools, museums and libraries will gain very largely by donations made to them by foreign exhibitors. Mr. Philbrick, for instance, of the Boston Public School Board, has been authorized to give away a great many books, desks and maps to Vienna institutions. The Pesth Museum has received many valuable gifts, in token of the kindness and hospitality shown to the jury on the occasion of their visit to that city. The Austrian Minister of Commerce has also given a large sum towards the purchase of such articles as are most needed as models for instruction in his department.

I have heard it remarked by many visitors that it seemed a great pity that this exhibition could not always remain just as it was in its prime, as a permanent bazaar. Though this wish of theirs is not to be gratified, they will be glad to learn that not all of the buildings erected at such expenditure are to be destroyed. The rotunda, with the vast dome that is one of the greatest marvels of architectural skill, is to remain standing, together with the galleries that form one square block which surrounds it. The Kaiser and Jury pavilions are also to remain intact, as well as the palace of the Viceroy of Egypt. It is rumored that the Machine Hall is also to stand, having been purchased by a railway company, but of this I am not certain. The fine Aquarium erected just outside of the grounds is also to remain.

DINNER TO THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS—DECORATIONS GIVEN BY THE EMPEROR.

On the evening of Friday, October 31st, a dinner was given by the American exhibitors in honor of the three principal United States Commissioners—H. Garretson, T. W. McElrath and Mr. Hoyt. It took place in Hotel Britannia, and many American ladies and gentlemen were present. In the course of the evening each of these three gentlemen was presented with a [illegible] album as a souvenir of Vienna and of their pleasant labors during the last six months.

LIVE MAMMOTHS DISCOVERED

Any lady tired of fox hunting might, according to a Russian Cheriton [illegible] in Siberia. In his accounts of his exploits he says that one day he found the wide and lofty entrance to a cave. He entered with some precautions for the [illegible] pavement was worn as if by use, and within he heard a slow measured movement as of an animal gently ruminating and heavily breathing, with great calm inspirations and expirations, like the sigh of a smith's bellows. One turn then another, he heard a heavy startling snort, and there in the half light of the cave, standing still before him, alive, chewing the cud and waving its proboscis to and fro with a slow gentle majestic movement, he saw a mammoth. "I did not know then," said Cheriton, "what I have since learned, that Siberia was an old habitation of these animals, and that some of the first [illegible] judges are uncertain whether [illegible] the remains found [illegible] the [illegible] of the Arctic Ocean as fossil animals or as their remains of a wandering herd caught and perishing in storms. Indeed [illegible] they still exist [illegible]. Without [illegible] I have lived that doubt." Cheriton describes the mammoth as being a very imposing looking animal, covered with a reddish brown wool and long black hair. During his stay in the vicinity he was close to five of them, all of which were nearly of a size, being about twelve feet high, eighteen feet long, with tusks projecting about four feet, and being about eight or ten feet counting the curve. The skin which was bare on the knees and rump was of a [illegible] color, and seemed very thick. He found it was [illegible] natural in its habits, frequenting a cave and [illegible] by day and feeding at night or early morning. Cheriton thinks there might be fifteen or twenty of these monsters together in [illegible].

SETTLING IT FIRST.—The Danbury News man is responsible for the truth of this incident. A gentleman who lives in Danbury recently read an article setting forth the evil of two persons lying together. He became so impressed with the truth of the argument that he proposed to his wife that they sleep in separate beds, and she acquiesced. The experiment was put in practice that night. About two o'clock in the morning the lady was awakened by a most lamentable moan. [illegible] her bed and on intervention [illegible] was great [illegible] relieved to find that it was her husband. He had turned cold [illegible] that night, and he had concluded that if he had to die any way he might as well go off quietly with a nervous attack [illegible] frozen to death in a [illegible] attitude.

INCOMPETENT TO THE TASK.—At the recent Spiritual Convention Miss Annie E. Hinman [illegible] made a little speech. Everybody before had been declaiming of the [illegible] of the marriage state and [illegible] the [illegible] incompatibility of [illegible] marriages [illegible]. When Miss Hinman got her chance [illegible] with almost [illegible] effective satire [illegible] "I am an old maid, and never had a husband to part with, and never happened to have the husband of any other woman, and have no especial experience in that respect. I cannot see that I feel competent to discuss the social question."

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS

A young and happy widow in Paris recently remarked to a friend: "I am now in the honeymoon of my widowhood."

Jenny Lind Goldschmidt, though upwards of fifty years of age, still sings occasionally in private circles in Berlin, her voice retaining much of its old sweetness and power. It is said her daughter bids fair to become as famous as the mother.

A Detroit family called upon a family in that city the other day, and introducing herself to a conversation [illegible] lady she was taken dreadfully ill. She said that she had no money and could not go to the hospital, and they would have to keep her through a run of fever. They gave her $5 to crawl out and try to find the hospital, after which she recovered with astonishing rapidity, and bought a new [illegible] the sash.

A letter from Japan says that a "Life of Washington" is announced by a Yeddo publisher. This literary curiosity is brought out in no less than 41 volumes in the Japanese characters and is profusely illustrated in the highest style of art. Washington is represented in the clothes and fashion of the present day, and with a mustache, carrying a cane, and accompanied by a skye terrier. He is gazing at a lady with a train, a Grecian bend and a hideous waterfall. As it is the first attempt of the kind, and as it is a great curiosity in itself, the book would be a great addition to the collection of a bibliomaniac.

The Eouris Review has its own old man who reads that paper and no other, and thus describes him: "Chewed tobacco sixty years and got fat on it. Then he took to hard drink and followed it for twenty five years and grew younger every day. Now he reads his paper by moonlight alone through an inverted microscope to make the type appear small enough for his eyesight, walks four miles every morning for his drinks before breakfast, chops a cord of wood between each meal, tried to die of old age thirteen times and failed every whack, attends to the wants of his old and feeble grandson, and superintends the funerals of his posterity with a decency becoming his years."

HOW MISS NILSSON REBUKED A CHICAGO BUMPKIN

"The Hunchback" was on the boards last night, with Miss Nilsson in the role of Julia and Mr. O'Neil in that of Clifford. These scenes had lifted and shifted until Julia has been transformed from the ingenious country maiden into the frivolous lady whom a city pleasure pleased, and then into the repentant woman whose pride had cast off a lover and who had pledged her hand without her heart to another. Clifford had met Julia then alone; country ties and mutual protestations of affection had resulted in the fixing of the marriage day, when he claimed to hear her lightly spoken words of indifference to all but his fortune, and then daring to chide her was spurned, only to have this misfortune succeeded by the news of the loss of his title and his estates. He becomes the secretary of the cousin who succeeds him, and who has become Julia's betrothed. In that scene where he bears a message from his master to Julia, and where she struggles between her love for the secretary and her duty as the promised bride of his cousin, the incident referred to occurred. The conflict between love and remorse had reached its culmination when she sank miserable with the despairing word "Clifford." It was a magnificent piece of acting, and the large audience were for the instant hushed with admiration. Then upon this silent attention to the tableau of the agonized woman at the feet of Clifford there broke the loud guffaw of a clown sitting in the parquette. Every eye turned in indignant glance to where he sat. He [illegible] the insult, the punctiliousness of rudeness not only to the actors but to the audience, [illegible] was not lost upon Miss Nilsson. She rose, no longer Julia—that part was forgotten. She stood the lady, and turned upon the thing who had so wounded the depths of degradation such a glance as he nor the audience will soon forget. It was no acting—it was a woman resenting an insult. Her glance comprised all of irony, sarcasm and contempt. The person cowered and must have felt as he never felt before his own inferior littleness. She stood thus, Miss Nilsson, only an instant, and then resumed her character of Julia.

The audience felt the justice of the rebuke and admired the woman the more, who could so instantaneously and so effectively resent so palpable an act of rudeness as the giggler had been guilty of. If the name of the person were known, it would be published, but it is safe to say that during Miss Nilsson's engagement he will go elsewhere than to McVicker's Theatre for entertainment.—Inter Ocean, Nov. [illegible].

CHURCH TROUBLE IN BROOKLYN OVER THE EXPULSION OF THEODORE TILTON.—An exchange from New York under date of Nov. 28th gives the following in regard to the expulsion some time ago of Theodore Tilton from the Plymouth Church: A meeting of the congregation was held this evening for the purpose of considering a communication which had been received from the Committee of the Church of the Pilgrims, Brooklyn. The communication in question, though couched in general terms, was evidently intended to refer to the expulsion on the 31st of October of Theodore Tilton from membership of Plymouth Church. The meeting was confined to exclusively members of the congregation and representatives of the Press being admitted. The clerk of the Church stated the purpose of the meeting and submitted the communication from the Church of the Pilgrims, charging a lack of discipline in Mr. Beecher's church. He urged the appointment of a Conference Committee between the churches. Mr. C. Hay proposed as the simplest conclusion of the matter that Plymouth Church should accede to the request for a Committee of Conference. Mr. Gilbert proposed a preamble and resolutions to the effect that the communication charging Plymouth Church with unscriptural action ought not to receive any consideration whatever, and that the latter Church being an independent organization declined to take notice of any protest from the Clinton street or any other Church. These resolutions were passed and the clerk of the church was authorized to send them to the Committee of the Church of the Pilgrims. Beecher made some remarks in which, without reference directly to Tilton, he deprecated the idea of strict church discipline by which a member can be expelled without grave reasons. Tilton's name was not mentioned during the proceedings.

Total, $146,000. Grand total of real estate and other property, $433,000. Amount expended to date on new building, $[illegible], and the unpaid balance owed to the contractors at the present time is $1,400. The annual income of the University at the present time is not far from $80,000, of which $[illegible] is derived from the interest on the University fund, $[illegible] from State aid, $25,000 from students' fees, and $[illegible] from rents and interest on Treasurer's account.

THE TERRITORIES

Pocket flasks are in great demand at Corinne since the agitation of the Sunday law.

The Greeley (Colorado) Sun calls the late gathering of the irrigationists "the wind and water convention."

A couple of widow ladies, passably good looking and of very engaging manners, now preside at the general delivery windows of the Denver postoffice, and the result is a vast increase in the number of inquiries.

From the Deer Lodge (Montana) Northwest: Our Missoula correspondent, under date of Monday, November 17th, writes: James Gash, one of the parties implicated in the murder of Coolwin on Snake river, succeeded in breaking jail this evening and successfully making his escape after shooting Sheriff Marion, breaking his arm. Gash was, it is supposed, furnished with arms by his brother, who had been visiting him daily since his capture. Parties are in pursuit of this audacious criminal, but it is doubtful if they succeed in capturing him, as the night is extremely dark. His escape was effected about 7 o'clock P. M., and up to date [illegible] nothing has been heard of pursuers or pursued.

The Greeley Tribune of last week has an editorial on the slaughter of the innocents (buffalo), from which we quote: We are all buffalo these days. Teams come in from the lower country loaded with meat, which sells readily at three cents a pound; a little has been sold for two cents. Last week thirty teams were met in one day going down, and the whole valley is alive with hunters and teams. The Utes and Sioux are also mixing in, and they get boiling mad if they find a hunter killing for sport. One hunter had fifty robes packed for transportation, and while off hunting for more the Sioux came up and burnt most of them. Some would not care if the hunter himself had been laid out. The Utes take the liberty to visit camps when the hunters are away, and help themselves to sugar, coffee and flour, which is all right—that is, it is no more than some white men do to each other. Greeley is becoming quite a point for the sale of buffalo robes, as it is the chief town nearest the buffalo region. On Saturday last three teams were in town, one drawn by four horses, loaded down with robes almost as high as loads of hay. They were bought by Mr. Koogle, whose tannery is in full operation, and hopes to cure two thousand during the season.

HOW SHOULD A LADY FASTEN HER STOCKINGS!—GARTERS, OR WHAT!

How shall a woman fasten her stockings so as not to interfere with the circulation of the blood, or spoil the shape of the le—that is, what measures shall be taken to prevent shrinkage and warpage of the le—let us see—of the Honi soit qui mal y pense? After the most careful research, as far as our limited facilities would allow, we arose from our explorations and humbly tender the following suggestions:

Wear them short, and let the tops bubble over the shoe in the form of lace a la beering.

If you will have them long, put mucilage inside and stick em to you.

Have them long enough to tie about your waist, using the knot for a panier.

Edge the tops with steel and fasten a lodestone to your corset.

Fasten a strap to [illegible] stocking, extend them gracefully up each side of the body and attach with blue ribbons to the ear rings.

Pin them to [illegible] other article of clothing in their immediate vicinity.

[Hold still now, we are doing this for your own good.]

Fasten them to a nail and go barefooted.

Attach a small balloon to each stocking.

Make them out of material that will draw up.

If you are thirty five and unmarried, make a hole near the top of each stocking and button it to your knee cap.

These are all the methods that suggest themselves to us at present, and of the number some one or more may be deemed worthy of adoption. We have taken a sudden and lively interest in this matter, and shall not rest until the needed reform is brought about. Woman's limbs shall not be hampered and knotted, and deformed if we have enough inventive faculty to bring to light new and healthful ways of wearing the stockings, and we think we have. We shall continue our investigations into this subject even at the risk of getting our neck into the matrimonial noose. What the women of this country most need is not suffrage, but symmetry; not rights, but rationality; not a place in our legislative halls, but a place to fasten their stockings. Let all true hearted men join with us in a search for that place.—Charlton (Mo.) Luminary.

ALL HANDS BELOW.—The New York Christian Union tells this story:

A good story is told of a parrot who had always lived on board of a ship, but who escaped at one of the southern ports and took refuge in a church. Soon afterward the congregation assembled and the minister began preaching to them in his earnest fashion, saying there was no virtue in them—that every one of them would go to an endless perdition unless they repented. Just as he spoke the sentence, up spoke the parrot from its hiding place:

"All hands below!"

To say that "all hands" were startled would be a mild way of putting it. The peculiar voice and unknown source had much more effect upon them than the parson's speech ever had. He waited a moment and then in a shade gr[illegible] voice he repeated the warning.

"All hands below!" again rang out from somewhere.

The preacher started from his pulpit and looked anxiously around, inquiring if anybody had spoken.

"All hands below!" was the only reply, at which the entire panic stricken congregation got up, and a moment afterward they all bolted for the doors, the preacher trying his best to get there first, and during the time the mischievous bird kept up his yelling,

"All hands below!"

There was one old woman present who was lame and could not get out so fast as the rest, and in a short time she was left entirely alone. Just as she was about to hobble out the parrot flew down, and alighting on her shoulder, yelled in her ear:

"All hands below!"

"No, no, Mister Devil," shrieked the old woman, "you don't mean me. I don't belong here. I go to the other church across the way."

A VALUABLE PICTURE FOR AMERICA.—The London Daily News of Nov. 7th says: A correspondent writes that the celebrated picture by J. Portaels, of Brussels, of "The Drought in Egypt," which has this year obtained the special gold medal offered for the best picture exhibited, without regard to school, style or subject, by a living artist, at the Crystal Palace, Sydenham, has just been purchased out of our galleries at a very high price for the Museum at Washington, United States, which is beginning to form a collection of paintings by modern artists.

All puns are abominable and indefensible. And some are very good. A Liverpool pilot was brought over on a White Star steamer much against his will, the weather being so heavy that he could not be landed. A gentleman being asked what the pilot must have said when he saw Boston, replied: "That Mersey to others show, that Mersey show to me." We are sorry to say that we do not believe one word of this story. We know a man, unfortunately, who sees a pun when we see one, and this has all the air of being artificial.

The Missionary Board of the M. E. Church, under the head of Domestic Missions, appropriates for 1874 the sum of $4,000 to the Oregon Conference proper, and $4,500 to the East Oregon and Washington Conference. The Board made also the following appropriations among those of moneys to be raised during the year 1874: East Oregon and Washington, $500; Oregon, $2,000.

A writer from Grant's Pass, Jackson county, to the Advocate, says of the earthquake: "The first indication we had of it was the clattering of the windows, then followed a few violent upheavals, then a very severe oscillating movement. We think it lasted from fifteen to twenty seconds. We have heard of no serious damage being done beyond the knocking down of some chimney tops, cracking some cellar walls and displacing some buildings."

Mr. J. Henry Brown, of Salem, has a fine specimen of an implement of warfare used in the ages past, in the shape of an Indian spear head. The specimen was dug out of the ground near Marion Station, at a depth of four feet below the surface. Large forest trees were growing over it, showing that it had lain there for many years. It is made from a black flint, probably of volcanic origin, and is nearly six inches in length—the largest ever found in Oregon.

The Albany Register says: "The city election on Monday resulted as follows: For Mayor, M. V. Brown; Recorder, J. R. Herren; Marshal, T. P. McKnight; Treasurer, James B. Titus—all gentlemen of the Democratic persuasion save and except the Treasurer, who is a bedrock Republican. Of the Councilmen elect, Messrs. J. F. Backensto and D. Froman were Republican nominees, while Messrs. A. Cowan, John Parker, C. C. Kuhn and V. Circle were placed in nomination by the Democracy."

Our regular [illegible] at Hillsboro, under date of the 4th, says: "The wheat is all safe, the snow commenced falling last night at 9:30 o'clock, and has continued since that time, accompanied by high east winds. The snow is now about 8 inches deep, which will completely shelter the grain from further damage, while this spell lasts at least. It will also give our people an excellent opportunity to enjoy a season of sleighing, which is a rarity in Oregon."

The Reporter says the Grange at McMinnville is prospering finely, which fact is evidenced to those on the outside by the activity and interest prevailing on their meeting days. This Grange started out with thirty members. Within the past few weeks it has conferred the degrees upon seven new members, and there are eight applicants waiting now for admission. To dispose of accumulated business meetings are being held once a week. All the members seem interested and active for the welfare of their new found fraternity. There is an air of sociability resting about them, appearing to one looking on, as a sphere of harmony, good will and contentment.

The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 5, 1873.

THE MESSAGE AGAIN.

The snow storm which extends south into northern California has broken down the telegraph line, and communication between Oregon and the rest of the world is totally suspended. This has happened many times heretofore and has always been a source of annoyance, for it seems as if the storm always came just when Oregon could least afford to be without dispatches, but we have no recollection of a former instance in which the elements have interfered between the two parts of the President's message. We have had the first installment, and the vigorous character of that makes every reader the more anxious to see the remainder. Until that comes, it is impossible to form any very intelligent judgment of the whole policy of the Administration for the future.

We have expressed the opinion that the people of the United States will not accept unquestioningly the proposition to limit the action of Congress, and in special sessions to such matters as the President may bring before that body, and to extend the veto power of the President so as to allow him to nullify such portions of an act of Congress as he may object, and allow the act to become operative as to other parts. The proposition could only be carried into effect through an amendment to the Federal Constitution, and this, of course, would require more than Congressional action. But we cannot conceive it possible that Congress will take this preliminary step of recommending such an amendment. It would involve consequences too grave.

The indignation manifested by the people of the United States at the salary grab of last Congress, is, no doubt, the circumstance which has prompted this proposition at this time. It is generally known that a veto of that piece of legislative indecency would have defeated appropriations necessary to the carrying on of the Government, and that the President and many of those who voted for the final passage of the bill, claimed to have done so only because the defeat of these appropriations would have been a greater evil than the passage of the objectionable provisions. Could the President have vetoed the salary grab and allowed the rest of the bill to remain in force, the country might have been saved this disgrace. Possibly, such a veto would have been interposed, had the power existed. Upon this every one will, of course, have his own notions. But it is certain that the possession of such a power would enable the President to trade and swap in legislative matters until almost any bill he chose to have passed would be passed, and it would be hardly possible to get the necessary two-thirds vote to overrule the veto in any case. Congress will not be in haste to place itself in this position.

We cannot promise our readers a perusal of the installment yet to come of the message, unless they will first inform us how long the snow blockade is to be maintained.

PARTY LOGIC.

Our evening contemporary is after the President sharply because he does not accompany his statement of the application of Santo Domingo for a protectorate, with a recommendation to Congress on the subject. [illegible]is strikes us as a little fresh. How long [illegible] it since the entire Democratic press of the country was berating the President as if he had been a pick-pocket because he thought fit to recommend the acquisition of Santo Domingo? Now it is said he "shows himself wanting in those qualities of statesmanship and candor so necessary to his position." Grant thought the United States would do well to possess Santo Domingo, and he said so; forthwith the Democratic party press made furious war upon him for it. The people represented in the Senate, did not see the matter in the same light with the President, and declined to carry out the scheme; and the President submitted. Now the matter is again forced upon his attention by an application for a protectorate, and the matter is too important to be ignored entirely; so the President simply refers it to Congress without expressing his own views; and for this he is declared unfit for his high position.

If Grant expresses an opinion upon a subject upon which the Democracy does not agree with him, he is denounced in round terms. The subject is brought to his attention again, modified in form, but the same in its inevitable result, and the President refrains from pressing his views a second time upon Congress; and for this also he is denounced in terms equally round. This appears to be the logic of prejudice. Although we regarded Grant as a good President, and have entertained a very high opinion of his administration in its main features, we have not believed him to be exempt from that liability to err which is said to be an attribute of humanity. President Grant is only a man, and all men having grave and complicated duties to discharge, sometimes make mistakes and take unfortunate views. But if Grant was wrong in making a recommendation on this matter before, he is right in not making it now. And if the Democratic press was right in attacking him for making that recommendation then, it is wrong in attacking him now for not doing so. These attacks taken in connection with each other, illustrate the manner in which justice and fairness are required to be rejected in party criticism. The President of the United States can do nothing that is not censurable, in Democratic eyes, because he is a Republican President!

THE WAY THEY RAISED THE WAR HOWL.

One thing noticeable in this sad business of the Virginius butchery, is the ridiculous attitude in which the subsidence of the war fever has left such bellicose journals as took their cue from the New York meeting. Out here on the Pacific coast a few papers caught up the yell which followed Evarts' speech, copied profusely from excited advocates of Cuban independence, and then "winked out" most ingloriously. Some inquisitive person has undertaken an analysis of this ephemeral war movement. Here is one of the elements:

"NEW YORK, November 15, 1873.

"GOVERNOR HENDRICKS: Please send the Executive Committee a stunning dispatch to be read on Monday night at the mass meeting on the Cuban atrocities."

"J. H. VAN ALLEN,
"M. J. McMAHON."

Hendricks complied with the request, and his "stunning dispatch" was received with loud yells for war.

This is said by several of our Eastern exchanges to be a fair sample of the proceedings of valorous McMahon, who was looking, perhaps, at the chances for a fat Customs office in "Cuba Libre." It is sufficient to show the character of the men who started the howl for war and the manner in which they did it.

On the 22d day of November, the people of Delaware indulged in the ancient amusement of the whipping post. "Sky Duke, Samuel Bush and William Pickering (white), received twenty lashes each, and William Zills, Trusty, and William Kenty, ten lashes. Hawkins was compelled to stand in the pillory for one hour, and afterwards receive forty lashes. Blood was drawn from two of the white men." It is cheering to know, however, that Delaware has abolished the custom of burying indiscreet young women, and that crucifixion is seldom indulged in.

On the 20th of November the printers on most of the Pittsburgh, Pa., papers struck and attempted to force the offices to come to their terms. But Typographical Unions have lost half their terrors of late, and on the day following an information was made by several newspapers against the strikers for conspiracy. A number of the dictators were arrested and several spent a night in jail. New men filled their places in the offices, and, the Dispatch says, "old citizens who had formerly worked at the business are taking a hand at the case."

THE VIRGINIUS.

TERMS OF THE PROTOCOL AGREED UPON BY SECRETARY FISH AND ADMIRAL POLO.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Negotiations between the United States and Spain, with regard to the questions growing out of the capture of the Virginius, were brought to a conclusion to-day, Secretary Fish and Admiral Polo having agreed upon and signed a protocol, which the latter soon after telegraphed to his Government. The terms are substantially as follows:

First—Immediate surrender to the United States of the ship Virginius, and all the surviving passengers and crew.

Second—A salute to our flag on the 25th of December next, unless in the meantime Spain shall satisfy us that the American flag was improperly borne on that vessel, and further, that she had no right to carry the American flag or American papers. In this event the salute to be withdrawn, and Spain to formally disclaim any intention of indignity to our flag in the acts committed against the Virginius.

Third—If it shall thus be shown that the Virginius had no right to carry the American flag and papers, the United States will institute proceedings against the vessel and the surviving parties who violated the laws of the United States, and Spain guarantees to institute proceedings against any of her authorities who may have violated either law or treaty stipulations.

The matter of reclamation for damage is reserved for future consideration.

Within two days Secretary Fish and the Spanish Minister will determine on the port at which the Virginius and the surviving passengers and crew shall be delivered. The words "immediate release," as applicable to the delivery of the Virginius and the surviving passengers and crew, imply of course a reasonable time for its execution, as some days must elapse before Havana and Santiago de Cuba can be reached.

The agreement is remarked upon in official quarters as covering all the points of our original demands, though in a modified form, while it is considered respectful and honorable to both countries. The fixing of the 25th of December as the time for saluting our flag, is to allow the nec[illegible]ry opportunity to Spain to show that the Virginius improperly carried the American flag and papers.

There is a sensible relief in all quarters that the negotiations have thus peaceably ended. Both Secretary Fish and Admiral Polo have for two weeks past been engaged in bringing about this result, on which they receive the congratulations of their respective friends.

SICKLES' INSTRUCTIONS.

Secretary Fish instructed Gen. Sickles in the following language: "You will also, in the name of the President, solemnly protest against any longer carrying on this war in Cuba in this barbarous way. For now nearly a year the insurgents have maintained themselves against all the forces which Spain and the Catalan Volunteers have been able to put into the field against them. In the judgment of the President, in which I believe the whole civilized world will concede, the time has come when this struggle should be carried on in a more humane way. To shoot prisoners of war simply because they are taken with arms in their hands is not in accordance with the customs of the Christian world. This country is deeply interested in the proper solution of this question. Our relations with Cuba are so many and so intimate that we cannot regard this struggle in all its details with anything but intense interest. Our earnest wish has been and is to do our whole duty as a neutral nation toward Spain in this controversy. Feeling that we have done so, that under circumstances of peculiar difficulty we have enforced our laws and maintained our neutrality, we think that we have the right on our part to insist that Spain shall carry on this war hereafter in a manner more in accordance with the humane and Christian spirit of the age.

DAYLIGHT THROUGH THE HOOSAC TUNNEL.

BOSTON, Nov. 27.—A special from South Adams says the two headings of the Hoosac tunnel met to-day. This morning only 16 feet of rock intervened, and even that was penetrated yesterday by the test-hole—a perforation two inches in diameter, which was started from the breast of the workings of the central section on Tuesday afternoon. This hole was made for the purpose of passing through electric wires from the battery worked in the central section, by which to discharge at the same instant a blast of 150 pounds of nitro glycerine placed in the breast on two sides of the mass of rock. Everything being in readiness, the last charge was fired. The blast was successful, letting daylight through the mountain. A party of distinguished gentlemen, including members of the Legislature, newspaper men, etc., were present.

A LIFE-SAVING CANNON BALL.—The Washington Star says: Mr. Kimball, Chief of the Revenue Marine Service, has received a large solid twenty-four pound shot, forwarded to him by W. W. Ware, Superintendent of the Life Saving Stations at Cape May, N. J. The ball was fired by John Maxson, long since deceased, over the ship Theodore wrecked January 12th, 1850 on Squan Beach and was there by the means of saving 201 lives. The ball was hauled on board and left on the deck of the ship which soon went to pieces, the ball falling in the hold. The wreck soon sanded, and so remained until a recent date, when, by the action of the sea a portion of the wreck was washed out and the ball found. It being so directly identified with the early history of the Life-Saving Service, makes it, at this time, when we are increasing this important service, peculiarly interesting. This is the first ball ever fired in the United States for the purpose of saving lives endangered by shipwreck.

DAMAGES AWARDED AGAINST RAILROADS.—A Portsmouth (N. H.) dispatch of November 21st says: In the Supreme Court to-day, Superintendent Prescott and others appeared on behalf of the Eastern Railroad to lessen the damages for killing Capt. Robert Norton of Seabrook, but Judge Foster awarded the full limit of $5,000 and costs, and regretted that he could not give more. The Manchester and Lawrence road was also fined $5,000 and costs for killing Benjamin Woodbury at Salem, N. H., two or three years ago.

THE STORM.—According to notice by telegraph and barometer the first snow storm of the season came on at a very early hour yesterday morning and the hyperborean king has held despotic sway over the denizens of this region up to the present writing. When the early bird went for the worm at sunrise, he found that that insect had been enveloped in a mantle of white and the early bird went back to his little bed. Our streets presented a dreary appearance until 8 or 9 o clock when the people with ears muffled and overcoats tightly buttoned began to stir abroad in considerable numbers. Those who had the coin to invest in the pastime of sleigh riding knowing how brief the opportunity for that business might be immediately began their preparations for the sport and by noon when the snow had fallen to the depth of about six inches our streets resounded with the merry jingle of the bells as the prancing steeds went up and down through those thoroughfares the occupants seeming to care but little for the blinding snow drifts that almost turned the poorer pedestrian back in his course.

The average Webfoot was taken aback at what he considered 'An awful cold snap and terrible storm,' but a Minnesotian whom we met, remarked that he thought it a 'very plasant day,' when we thought what an iceberg that man must be. But we suppose, really that this weather—twenty five degrees above zero—of which the people who have long lived here make so much ado, would be considered 'mild' in that gentleman's former home.

Our locality was not alone the recipient of this visit of the Frost King, as we learn that it has been felt in various other sections. The boat from Astoria reports slush ice running freely in the Columbia, detaining her to a late hour so that she did not reach our city until 9 o clock at night. The regular boat from the Cascades had not arrived at 10 o clock and fears are expressed that the Columbia is already or will soon be closed above the mouth of the Wallamet. The severity of the storm has been such as to prostrate the telegraph lines and stop communication by that means. Such a storm has not been known to come so early in the season in Oregon during the last twenty years. In conclusion, we are informed by that scion of "Old Probabilities" in this city, the gentlemanly Signal Officer, that the weather is likely to moderate very soon, as the rain indications are strong. So mote it be.

A NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL.—We learn that quite recently a new Sunday School has been organized in Watson's Addition by the Episcopal denomination. The attention of the Rector of Trinity Church was attracted by the absence of religious services of any character in that portion of the city and with the devoted aid of several ladies from the parish the work of organizing a Sunday School was commenced. A commodious room was obtained in a private house, and the Sunday School was opened on the afternoon of Sunday the twenty-fifth after Trinity (Nov 23d). During the previous week, Mr Burton had made some thirty visits in the neighborhood, and given notice of the intended Sunday School, inviting the attendance of all children not attending any Sunday School. The fruits of these efforts were eighteen children and four teachers besides the pastor. The mission service was used in opening, with a short address to the children after which they were divided into classes, books put into their hands and the lessons assigned for the next Sunday. The real work, then, begins on the first Sunday in Advent. The intention is to have an afternoon service and sermon once or twice a month. The children are to be regularly instructed in music, and a Christmas tree is promised them.

A CONFIDENCE MAN.—The Walla Walla Union contains the following which may be of interest to business men: 'A few years since a man calling himself Major Goddard, came to Walla Walla and engaging in the grocery and provision business, for a time made himself conspicuous, and managed to contract a heavy indebtedness both here and in Portland. All of a sudden the gallant 'Major' disappeared, leaving behind him any number of victimized creditors. All this occurred full three years since and nothing was heard of Major Goddard until one day last week, when he was recognized at Umatilla Landing passing under the name of Goldstone. When charged with being the Walla Walla fugitive, he at first denied the imputation, but subsequently owned up and stated that he was on his way to Portland to settle with his creditors, after which he would return to Walla Walla and make everything lovely. It is possible that the 'Major' will do all that he says, and if so, sundry long suffering creditors will be jubilant.

AN OLD THIEF.—On Wednesday evening, while two men named Mulligan and Smith were standing in a saloon down on Front street and changing some money, an old thief known as O Neil entered the room. Both Mulligan and Smith were standing near the bar when O'Neil came in. Smith was holding the purse in one hand and the other man was just in the act of placing some money in the bag when O Neil snatched purse and contents, and turning fled. A man named Graham who witnessed the affair, gave chase. He pursued O Neil for a distance of several blocks before overhauling him. Graham searched the would be thief but to his surprise found nothing. O Neil confessed he had thrown the purse away as he ran, when he found himself closely pressed. The purse contained $165. On complaint O Neil was arrested and placed in the jail. The case will be examined into this morning.

A HOT POSITION.—We learn through our Hillsboro correspondent that the County Treasurer of Washington county, who has lately joined the Grangers, concluded to do away with a middle man in a blacksmith shop in that town yesterday and essayed to do a job of blacksmithing on his own hook. Accordingly, the forge was captured by a flank movement, and a small piece of iron brought to a red heat. Spitting on his hands he seized the hammer after the fashion of ye muscular son of Vulcan, and brought it down with a tremendous whack on the iron. The tarnel thing gave a short quick twirl, took him over the left eye, cutting and burning a fearful gash. Fortunately the ball of the eye by some means escaped injury. The moral is obvious.

MORE NEW MUSIC.—Mr Bentz manager of M Gray's Music Store in this city has placed on our table a number of new musical compositions. The first is 'The Bloom is on the Heather.' It is a Scotch ballad dedicated to, and sung by Mrs H F H Carter and written and composed by M J Messer. The second composition is 'My Heart is Still in Michigan,' words by I J Bates, music by J P Webster. The next is 'My Gal Schottisch' as played by Ballenberg arranged for the piano by Louis Bodecker. This is followed by 'There's a Letter in the Candle,' song and chorus by George T Evans. The fifth and last piece, 'Spring Morning,' arranged for the piano by Stephen A Emery and dedicated to Miss M D Higgins of Boston.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONCERT.—The regular monthly Missionary Concert will be held next Sunday at the Taylor street M E Church. The following is the programme: Prayer. Singing by the School—'Rifted Rock.' Lesson review. Quartette—'Give unto the Lord.' Declamation—Freddie Watkins. Solo—'My Savior dear,' Maggie Sutherland. Declamation. Forrester Royal Trio 'Little Travelers.' Recitation, 'The Master hath need of Reapers,' Mary Combs. Singing, by boys choir, 'The Two Songs.' Dialogue—'Willing Hearts.' Solo and Quartette—'Light in the Darkness.' Address by Rev Medbury. Congregational Chorus—'Shall we Gather at the River.' Dialogue—'How was a Box.' Collection. [illegible] presentation.

AGROUND.—Last evening while the steamer Ajax was on the way down the river she ran aground a short distance below the mouth of the Wallamet. Notwithstanding efforts were made to get her off the steamer could not be extricated. As the Astoria boat came up she hitched on but the combined power of both vessels was not sufficient to pull her free from the sand. The Ajax will probably succeed in getting off by taking advantage of the tide.

NO FREIGHT RECEIVED.—Until further notice we learn that freight will not be received on the O S N Co's wharf at this place for points east of the mountains. This is in anticipation of an early closing of the Columbia.

A LITERARY TREAT.—This evening the young gentlemen who compose the Philomathean Society will give a literary entertainment at Good Templars Hall, corner of Third and Alder streets. The members have made considerable preparations and the forthcoming entertainment promises to be a very interesting affair. The exercises will consist of addresses declamations essays music etc. The following is the order of exercises: Opening Address; Declamation; Essay on the subject of 'Progression;' Dialogue, 'Scene from Paul Pry;' Declamation; Discussion of the Subject of 'Resolved That theaters are more beneficial than injurious,' by eight of the members—four on each side; Reading, and Closing Address. The exercises will be interspersed with instrumental music. The entertainment will commence at 7:30 o clock sharp. All friends of the Society are cordially invited to attend. A special invitation is extended to the ladies.

SLAUGHTER OF THE PUPS.—At the last meeting of the Common Council the sum of $1.20 was paid to Chas Lawrence. This was for important services rendered the municipality in exterminating 60 dogs who did not carry about their bodies the sine qua non decorative medal entitling them to the unrestrained liberty of the streets. My countrymen! can these things pass unrebuked in the broad glare of Christian civilization? Sixty valuable purps slain and yet his insatiate thirst for canine blood is not glutted.

DEPARTED.—The steamer Ajax sailed last evening for San Francisco. She carried away the following passengers: G W Vaughn Miss L Vaughn, I Lazuky, S Koketh, Herman Zadig, G B Cook, Geo Harsh, Mr Pomeroy, Joe Wall, Mrs Creary, Mr C Kohn, John Endor, H I Fourlist, Mr Chilson, J Watermann, Miss Anna Burkhart, and 3 in the steerage.

FIRE ALARM.—An alarm of fire was sounded this morning at 1 o clock. The alarm was occasioned by the burning out of a flue in a Chinese house at the corner of Alder and Second streets. The department responded promptly, but the fire was extinguished before the engines arrived on the scene. No damage.

SECOND CROP.—A gentleman just from Vancouver laid on our table yesterday several small apples of the bell-fleuer variety. These apples are of the second crop the present year. After gathering the fruit some months ago the trees bloomed again and produced a number of small apples. The trees are in the orchard of Mrs John Jaggy, who resides in Vancouver.

TAKEN THE PLACE.—In consequence of the great rush of freight down the river, the steamer Dixie Thompson took the place of the Jone McNear on Wednesday morning. Last evening the latter craft was taken down to the boneyard and while the present rush of freight continues, the Dixie will remain on the lower route.

BEING PREPARED.—The skeleton of the young whale which was captured at Baker's Bay about two weeks ago and towed to this city, is being prepared for exhibition at the Oregon Museum. The flesh has been nearly all stripped off the bones, and the frame will soon be in a condition to be exhibited.

LINE DOWN.—Since the commencement of the present storm the wires have been prostrated on the O S N Co's telegraph line between this place and the Dalles. The line appears to be down in a number of places and the Company are unable to obtain information from any point up the river.

SAD TIDINGS.—Philip Wasserman Esq received the sad intelligence yesterday of the death of his mother, who departed life in Germany on Wednesday at the advanced age of 88 years. In consequence of the sad event his place of business was closed yesterday.

SAN FRANCISCO STEAMER.—For some time past the steamers have been leaving San Francisco for Portland on Saturday. No steamer will sail for this port to-morrow as usual. The Oriflamme will not leave until next Thursday.

CIRCUIT COURT.—The Circuit Court will convene to-morrow morning to complete the unfinished business of the term. Court will adjourn to-morrow for the term.

ADJOURNED TO SATURDAY.—The County Court adjourned on Wednesday afternoon until to-morrow morning.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Snow.

Sleighing is all the rage.

Merrily sounds the sleigh bells.

There are 25 prisoners now in the city jail.

Yesterday was a good day for duck shooting.

The case of the Chinaman tried in the Police Court yesterday afternoon for perjury was dis-charged, as sufficient convicting evidence could not be elicited.

Work on the new wharf at the foot of Alder street has been suspended on account of the weather. Two stories have been completed and had the storm held off a short time it would have been entirely under cover.

The new market building, on the corner of Madison, Front and First streets is almost completed. The gas fixtures are all in place, and the carpenters are busily engaged in putting on the interior finishing touches preparatory to occupancy.

A glance along the wharves shows that the movement of ocean craft has settled considerably. Several vessels are lying at the east side warehouse and present not a very inviting appearance as the sails, rigging and everything is covered with snow and ice.

MILITARY NOTES

Major Eggleston went down the river a few days since to pay off the soldiers at Forts Stevens and Disappointment.

Major Canby who went to Sitka several weeks ago to pay off the troops at that post is expected to arrive here on the City [illegible]

Gen Meigs Quartermaster General of the U S Army accompanied by his son arrived on the last steamer. Yesterday he went up to the Dalles. He comes on a pleasure trip for the benefit of his health.

In view of the threatened early closing of the Columbia Capt Bell, Chief Commissary of Subsistence is having large quantities of supplies shipped to the garrison at Vancouver. In such an undesirable event that post will serve as a base of supplies during the winter.

One hundred and thirty recruits who arrived a few days ago from San Francisco and were temporarily stationed at Vancouver started east of the mountains last Tuesday morning. These troops will be sent first to Fort Walla Walla. From there they will be distributed to the several posts, Fort Lapwai and Camp Harney. Capt Burton and Lieut Duncan are in command of these troops.

PERSONAL.

The Churchman says that Rev J F Hammond sailed from New York via Panama on the 20th ult for Oregon. He will be stationed at Eugene City and do missionary duty in the southern portion of the State.

Such an elegant stock of new Jewelry just received at B L Stone's.

The variety of Foreign and Domestic Fruits to be seen at W ASCHENHEIM'S 120 First Street is immense for this time of the year. Go and see it.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

PERSONAL, LOCAL AND GENERAL, ETC.

(From the P C Advocate)

By a late arrangement Mrs F I Church has assumed control of the Primary Department of the Portland Academy and Female Seminary. Mrs Church possesses uncommon qualifications as an instructor of youth.

The new Presbyterian chapel erected under the superintendence of Rev H Gans, and situated about eleven miles northward of the city is nearly ready for dedication. We understand that quite a settlement of excellent German families is in that vicinity.

The parsonage on Milwaukie Circuit is located just back of Brooklyn and near the Machine Shops. Its worthy occupants Rev Jos Hoberg and family were visited on the 22d ult and a large handsome cooking stove was placed under their care by a few friends. The stove was made in Nation's foundry at Brooklyn.

The monthly meeting of the Sunday School teachers of Taylor street M E Church was held on Tuesday evening last. Among other matters of business transacted was the appointment of a committee to prepare a Christmas tree for the school according to the yearly custom. It was decided to have it at 6 o clock P M on Christmas Eve. We doubt not the occasion will be made one of unusual interest and profit.

(From the Catholic Sentinel)

The quarterly meeting of the Library Society takes place in their rooms next Sunday afternoon at 2 o clock. A general attendance is desired.

The St Joseph's German Catholic Society meets next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the hall over the Catholic Library rooms adjoining the Cathedral church.

Next Saturday the first day of the Feriae Mass will be celebrated at eight o clock A M, and the evening exercises will begin at seven o clock. On Sunday services will be held as usual.

On Monday the Feast of the Immaculate Conception a holy day of obligation Masses will be celebrated at six, eight and ten o clock A M, the last being Pontifical High Mass, after which the solemn consecration of the Archdiocese to the Sacred Heart of Jesus will take place. In the evening, services will begin at seven o'clock.

We learn that a grand concert is being arranged in Salem to come off on the 29th inst under the auspices of our Catholic friends in that city. From the fact that Mr Edward Atkinson formerly of the Cathedral choir in this city is the leading spirit in the matter, and that Miss Maggie McManus will take a leading part we can promise the lovers of music in the Capital a rare treat upon the occasion.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Mr P B Hill at C M Martin's old stand is adding very largely to the stock of groceries. Consult his new advertisement.

A special sale of a lot of elegant household furniture will be sold this (Friday) at the residence of Mr J Lut Smith. An opportunity for splendid bargains. A B Richardson will officiate on the occasion.

Messrs Lingham & Bonisby in the Odd Fellows Temple have added many new styles in jewelry to their stock and are now prepared to offer to the public something really fine for the Holidays. See their new advertisement and by all means call on them when you are out making purchases.

We called yesterday at the Aurora Restaurant and found the place filled with customers. This is accounted for on the ground of low prices. The rooms are very neat and the meals of the best quality. The prices are low enough certainly and all are satisfied. Go once and you will certainly go again.

Chains—new styles—all beautiful—B L Stone.

As the holidays approach recollect B L Stone in your purchases.

DULL TIMES.—When times are dull all classes should study economy in all matters. In the purchase of one particular article, that of clothing low prices are what people want. Now be it understood that BECK & WALDMAN the famous Clothiers have fixed the prices so low that the man with the least means can find it advantageous to buy. It is only necessary to call and examine the goods and if you are not satisfied then you are hard to please.

Perfectly splendid—the New Goods now opening at B L Stone's.

Don't get crazy about the gold mines or a probable panic, but settle down to business just where you are and when you take a notion to invest in a new suit of clothing and desire something really nobby and elegant in that line interview J O NEIL & Co on the subject. They don't put on any big prices but always endeavor to satisfy on first acquaintance. You can't leave their place without entrusting an order to their attention.

B L Stone is busy opening new Jewelry and such pretty things they are too.

CLOTHE YOURSELF.—Now is the time to make a purchase of winter clothing. If you have not done so make it a point to consult J KOHN & CO who are able to show you the finest assortment of goods ever displayed in this city. They have the largest store and are thus enabled to lay in an immense stock. There is no denying the fact. You need not hesitate about prices as they have put the figures down to allow but a small margin to themselves. The place is opposite the National Bank.

Don't be without it.

Winter is now fairly upon us and the teams are hastening to the lumber woods in various parts of the country. Our advice to every man who goes to the woods be he captain cook teamster or any other man is to take along a good stock of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment and Parsons Purgative Pills. Many months of labor (in the aggregate) may be saved by this precaution.

Bad enough to look and feel bad yourself but no excuse for having your horse look and feel badly when for a small sum you can buy Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders, which given in grain two or three times a week will make him look and feel well.

The Human Kitchen and its Dumb Waiters

The body is supplied with aliment by vessels which connect the stomach and its auxiliaries with the venous system and so to speak perform the office of dumb waiters in a restaurant. In other words these media of communication between the animal kitchen and its dependents supply to each member and organ near or remote the quantity and kind of sustenance required to keep it going. When the stomach is derelict in its duty or the dumb waiters inert or obstructed it is the peculiar province of Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters to strengthen and regulate them. Hence its marvelous cures of chronic indigestion, and the emaciation debility and languor which are generally its concomitants. It is moreover a powerful alterative and corrective and the rapidity with which it checks irregularities of the liver and bowels and braces and invigorates the nervous system is a marvel not only to the general public, but to professional men.

WEAKEN the cough that is weakening you with HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR. Every dose will relieve and a speedy cure is certain.

AN ELOQUENT LIAR

TOM PEPPER'S RELATIVE LIVING AT ST. JOHN'S

The St. John correspondent of the New York World says:

Two days ago two of our fishermen were out in a small boat in Conception bay, a short distance from Portugal cove, plying their avocations. Suddenly they discovered a dark, shapeless mass floating on the surface of the water a short distance from them. On approaching it the men concluded that it was a huge bale of goods—perhaps part of the cargo of some wrecked vessel, and that they had found a valuable prize. One of the men struck the object with his boat hook, when suddenly the dark heap became animated, opened out like a huge umbrella, without a handle, and the horror-stricken fishermen beheld a face full of intelligence, but also of ferocity, and a pair of ghastly green eyes glaring at them. Its huge parrot-like beak seeming to open with a savage and malignant purpose. The men were petrified with terror and for a moment so fascinated with the horrible sight that they were powerless. The eyes of the monster were peculiarly large and prominent, bright and apparently gleaming with rage. Before the fishermen could make any effort to escape, the creature now but a few feet from the boat, appeared to open out, and suddenly there shot out from around its face several long arms of corpse-like fleshiness, grappling for the boat and seeking to envelop it in their hideous folds. Had these lithe, slimy arms with their death-like, adhesive powers, once fastened themselves on the boat of the men, nothing could have saved them from destruction for when the suckers with which they are furnished have taken hold nothing can tear them away. They would have been brought in a moment within reach of the powerful beak which was ready to dart upon them. Only one of the longer tentacula reached the boat, and, owing to its length, went completely over and beyond it. Quick as lightning one of the men seized his tomahawk, and at one blow severed the corpse-like arm which was flung over the boat to drag it to destruction. The green-eyed monster uttered no cry of pain, but it disappeared beneath the waters, and the fishermen, who had thus escaped from a horrible death, found themselves in possession of the amputated arm—an unprecedented trophy for I believe no parallel occurrence is on record.

The portion of the kraken's arm amputated by the rude surgical operation has been forwarded to St. John's. I have just returned from a careful examination of it. It measures nineteen feet in length, and is tough and fibrous, but not thicker than a man's wrist. The fisherman who acted as surgeon declares that there must have been at least six feet of the arm left behind attached to the monster's body. Indeed, I am inclined to think from the description that the devil-fish must have still ten feet of his arm remaining, making its entire length twenty-nine feet.

The amputated arm is livid in color, pointed at the extremity, where it is covered with rows of suckers, which are cartilaginous, horny and about the size of a quarter of a dollar. I have suggested some measures for its preservation in spirits, and it will be placed in our museum.

AN EXCITING DEER HUNT

A STRUGGLE WITH A WOUNDED BUCK IN THE WATER—THE HUNTER DIVING FOR HIS LIFE

A correspondent of the New York Sun, writing from Milford, Pa., says Curley Pete Quick, noted as a hunter among a family of famous hunters, had an exciting adventure with a wounded buck in Big Log Tavern pond, one day last week. He was on a runaway, and an immense five prong buck ran into the pond near where he stood. Quick jumped into his boat and followed the deer, discharging both barrels of his rifle at the animal. He says he "hit it bad," but it kept right on. Redoubling his efforts, he sent his boat alongside the deer. It had got far out into the pond, which at that spot is half a mile wide, and very deep. Quick had dropped his rifle in the bottom of the boat, without reloading. He thought the buck was so badly wounded that he could dispatch it with his knife. He seized it by one of its horns and tried to hold it, but the deer plunged at the same time, and the horn broke off, throwing the hunter backward, and almost capsizing the boat.

Regaining his equilibrium, Quick again seized the deer by the horns. The buck whirled suddenly, and pulled Quick out of the boat. He landed squarely on the deer's back, still retaining his hold on its horns. He was in a perilous position, a long way from land, and his boat lying bottom side up. He knew from experience the danger of a hand to hand contest with a wounded deer on land or water. If he could hold his position on the deer's back, he hoped to be carried safely ashore. But the deer by a sudden ducking of his head, threw the hunter over his head in front of him, and the next instant struck him with his fore feet. Quick saw that he must fight for his life. Drawing his knife he closed with the now frantic animal. He plunged the knife into the deer's neck twice and then it slipped from his hand and sank, leaving him defenseless.

The deer meantime had not remitted in the least his mode of warfare and Quick's clothing was almost entirely stripped from him. Finding that he stood no possible chance with the buck, he dove from its sight, and coming up some distance off, made for the nearest shore. The deer did not follow, but took the shore at another point and lost no time in leaving Quick and the pond far behind him. The hunter found himself in a most pitiable plight. He was nearly naked and benumbed with cold. Moreover he was on the side opposite his cabin and was obliged to walk half way round through the underbrush before he could reach it. His wounds were painful but not serious. The buck was found dead the next day a quarter of a mile away.

WHAT DARK DE HOLE.—Two darkies in the West went out to hunt possums, and by accident found a large cave with a small entrance. Peeping in, they [illegible] young bear whelps in the interior.

"Jes' look heah, Sam, while I go in dar," said one, "and gets de young bars, you just watch heah for de ole bar."

Sam got asleep in the sun, and when opening his eyes he saw the old bear scouring her way into the cave. Quick as a wink he caught her by the tail and held on like blazes.

"Hullo dar, Sam, what dark de hole?"

"Lor bless you, Jumbo, save yourself honey if this tail come off you'll find what dark de hole."

Wheat in Liverpool, by mail advices from San Francisco—Average California [illegible] 13s 6d@13s 8d.

The greatest quiet prevails to-day in our local money market, which [illegible] of trade owing to the [illegible] which has cut us off from [illegible] communication with the outer world. We can therefore sum up the condition [illegible] in the [illegible] word inaction, though the general tendency is to more ease in the ordinary branches of business and [illegible] continued demand for funds to move the surplus [illegible] The [illegible] check movement [illegible] to the market to [illegible] so that renewed activity will follow upon the return of good weather.

Some Things Set Right.

We have found the [illegible] in the Bulletin we should have been surprised at no part of [illegible] the reference to Shoalwater bay in [illegible] the San Francisco Commercial Herald—the leading journal in its line on the Pacific coast, and usually correct, both in its knowledge and statements concerning trade matters—to publish a paragraph [illegible] wonder to us. That [illegible] in its issue of the 28th says:

During the current week we have had [illegible] important arrivals from Oregon. Heretofore [illegible] was the chief shipping point, but lately Astoria seems to be looming up considerably. Some of the largest steamers now clear for that port, while a number of ships have been loaded with [illegible] which at that point for the United Kingdom. But more recently we notice the arrival at this port of a fleet of sailing craft. This week we note the bark Portland from Astoria with 1,778 sks wheat, [illegible] from same with [illegible] oats, [illegible] wheat, [illegible] schooner Hera, with 2,202 sks wheat, 1,963 sks oats, 3,000 bbls flour and 668 bgs shorts. Doubtless there are others, but these are now in mind and show the growing importance of this out port. In this connection we ought not to omit reference to the growing importance of Shoalwater bay, Oregon, where many oyster beds have been planted and from whence we have received this week no less than three cargoes of oysters, containing 16,000 baskets, making upwards of 50,000 baskets for the month. The Bulletin says this latter trade the present season will amount to $200,000.

Now as a matter of course nobody claims that the water is as deep all the way from the sea to Portland as it is at Astoria and per consequence ships which can pass the latter point with ease sometimes have grounded before they reached our city. We have no regrets that Astoria seems to be looming up considerably. In fact we rejoice in the prosperity of that place and hope to see it continue to grow. But if it does, it must do so on other ground than the circulation of erroneous statements such as are embodied in the paragraph quoted, or the continued disparagement of other shipping points as observed in a journal of less pretensions than our San Francisco exchange. The fact that "some of the largest steamers now clear for that port" appears very well on its face, but when it is known that these same steamers come to Portland to discharge and receive their entire cargoes in nineteen cases out of twenty, the bit of importance that is to be attached to it will be manifest.

Again we call attention to the news that "a number of ships have been loaded at that point for the United Kingdom," which we apprehend will be news to the Astorians as no vessel has ever loaded there during the last ten years for the United Kingdom or any other kingdom, we believe. The "fleet of sailing craft" of which our exchange notes the arrival at San Francisco, are all vessels which received their cargoes very nearly, if not quite, all at Portland and not at Astoria at, as we expect, the printer has changed the schooner Fowl [illegible] into the "schooner Love" as we have no knowledge of any vessel by the latter name entering or departing from the Columbia river. He is particularly unfortunate in having mentioned the vessels Portland and Hera as they both loaded entirely at this place except that the Portland took on a few thousand feet of lumber at St. Helens. Our contemporary may not know that all the vessels which clear at Astoria do not load there any more than those clearing elsewhere for that point stop there. Astoria is one hundred and ten miles below Portland and is the first point after entering the mouth of the Columbia. This would seem superfluous as information, but there may be those that do not know that all vessels that come from the sea to Portland must pass by Astoria even as there seems to be some who after several years residence on the coast, and having all the facilities for obtaining information, have failed to learn that there is no such place in Oregon as Shoalwater Bay. When our exchange learns that place is in Washington Territory and that the oyster trade from that section has been carried on for years and that vessels going thence do not enter the Columbia at all and that many vessels loading at Portland get their clearance at Astoria, and that ships drawing 17 feet can reach Portland during the season of low water while those that draw more have a part of their cargo taken to St. Helens, Columbia City, Astoria, or some other point, on lighters in such low water times, and that Portland is the main point of supply for the North Pacific coast, that she is connected with Eastern Oregon with a daily line of steamers and with the Willamette valley, the principal agricultural region of the State, by two lines of railroad and two lines of river steamers, while Astoria has only connection with the interior by a steamboat making three trips from Portland each week, he may be able to write more intelligently and more correctly in regard to shipping interests in this part of the world.

Now we trust our readers at Astoria will take what we have said not as said in disparagement of that port as a shipping point but as so much set forth in vindication of truth. In the matter of water Astoria is admitted to have the advantage of Portland in the fall season but we trust and believe the effort made to clear the channel of the river hence to the sea will be successful in the near future and that the commerce flowing to our port direct and uninvested from all parts of the world will leave much of profit to our older but less potent sister at the lordly Columbia.

Shipping Intelligence.

The bark Akbar and another vessel, the name of which is unknown, are reported off the bar.

The steamer California will probably arrive at this port to-morrow. She will sail for Sitka and Sound ports on Saturday.

The steamer Oriflamme will sail from San Francisco for Portland next Tuesday morning.

The steamer Ajax sailed this evening for San Francisco with freight and passengers.

There are a number of sailing vessels due here from San Francisco.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—There seems to be some discrepancy between exporters as to what quotations should be given the range being $1 9 a [illegible] per cental. The latter we learn has been offered for [illegible] with the proviso that delivery be guaranteed within a few days which holders find to be impossible. The prospect of speedy communication by water with the upper portion of the valley is to-day less favorable and anticipated heavy receipts from that direction at an early day may not be realized. Receipts by rail continue quite large.

FLOUR—Our market exhibits considerable activity, as the season progresses and news from the interior reports nearly all our State mills as running on full time. Prices have been quite firm for several days at $6 [illegible] for best brands, $5 [illegible] for outside and country brands of extra and $4 [illegible] for superfine.

OATS—The very light shipments and receipts experienced so far during the season leads to the inference that very large quantities of this cereal is yet in the hands of producers held for a higher figure. Our local trade at present is moderately active at [illegible] per bushel as jobbers paying prices. There are now but slight indications of an early advance though should the attention now bestowed on wheat give way, oats may come more into favor.

BARLEY—We notice in our exchanges from San Francisco that the large surplus in California is about well out of the first hands as large shipments having been made to South America and some to New York and Liverpool. Our own market is very quiet though all [illegible] lots offering are freely taken at current rates. We quote common at $1 [illegible] to best at $1 [illegible] ₩ 100 lbs.

FEED—The supply in this market is kept quite full and with some shipping and an active home demand prices are well sustained. We quote bran at $16 per ton in jobbing lots, chopped feed [illegible] shorts $22 [illegible]

HAY—The receipts of the past few days have been light, and our quoted prices of $11 [illegible] for baled and $12 [illegible] per ton for loose timothy are firm.

POTATOES—The supply from town the river and adjacent farms is quite adequate to the demand which is almost entirely from the home trade, a call for shipping existing. The [illegible] rates at [illegible] cents ₩ bushel while inferior [illegible] quite dull [illegible]

ONIONS—With light receipts our market is firm at [illegible] cents ₩ pound. The shipments are light and California well supplied and San Francisco prices [illegible] flat.

APPLES—Like many other articles of produce for which Oregon has found a ready market in San Francisco, apples are now far in excess of the regular demand at [illegible] present rates of transportation shippers find but little encouragement. Our quotations are, for [illegible] is from [illegible] of account per pound [illegible] packed command [illegible]

BACON—The supply of side meats is well kept up though hardly as full as a fortnight ago, now finding [illegible] sale at 10 [illegible] The demand is quite active for Oregon cured hams and shoulders which are much scarcer. Quotations are furnished at 9@10 ₩ lb for shoulders and 14c for hams. We are not exporting at all but considerable imports arrive by each steamer from California, a fact discreditable to the enterprise and economy of our people.

LARD—The market is not in full supply except of importations. The call for fresh Oregon lard has been quite steady at [illegible] in kegs and 12@[illegible] tins.

BUTTER—Advices from San Francisco [illegible] very flat market for Oregon butter there and shippers express discouragement at the prospect. Our market is well supplied with common lots, which are [illegible] readily bought for [illegible] styles [illegible] packages. The best for family use however is not so plentiful and choice rolls are in demand at [illegible] while [illegible] supplied by well known dairies command [illegible]

CHEESE—The local trade is well supplied by four or five dairies in this State and importations from California. We quote [illegible] prices at 15@17c ₩ [illegible]

DRIED FRUITS—The market is well stocked with sun and kiln dried fruits and owing to the [illegible] there [illegible] shipments of dried apples [illegible] from the East [illegible] or Oregon [illegible] market [illegible] Dried Plums [illegible]

POULTRY—The receipts have slightly fallen off but prices remain as at last report. We quote: [illegible] Chickens grown $5 [illegible] last spring's and [illegible] doz; turkeys $1 [illegible]

EGGS—Under full receipts prices [illegible] at [illegible] at which [illegible] home trade shippers [illegible] advantageously in San Francisco.

BEEF CATTLE—The receipts from east of the Cascade mountains have perceptibly diminished. Prices [illegible] figure as the latter being only paid for choice [illegible] cattle that will not [illegible]

MUTTON SHEEP—The demand is not very active and butchers seem but little inclined to a [illegible] furnished at $2 50 [illegible] head.

DRESSED HOGS—[illegible] the market [illegible] the packing [illegible]

HIDES—The advices from the East indicate a [illegible] firm [illegible] from [illegible] have shown more [illegible] no positive decline has taken place [illegible] dry stall commanding 14@15 cents ₩ lb, green salted 7 cents, and green 6@[illegible] cents.

WOOL—The very great disturbance of the manufacturing interests in the Eastern states by the financial panic seems to have had its influence for the raw material as well, but few offers to buy are now made in our market, except to supply immediate want of our State mills, prices generally ruling at 20 [illegible] cents ₩ lb.

General Merchandise.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS—Mowers: Buckeye [illegible] model $130; Buckeye No. 2, $140; Buckeye No. 1 $155; Buckeye Self Raker; Bank Hand Raker $[illegible]; Buckeye Dropper $[illegible]; Clipper No. [illegible] $[illegible]; No. 3 $140; No. 4 $150; No. 5 $175. MEDICAL.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary.

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases of years standing and Ulcerated Legs [illegible] cured.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system? Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it is too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted [illegible] who are infected in the welfare of [illegible] to be careful of the many pretended doctors who [illegible] all cities, publishing their skill [illegible] in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

Married Men,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DR. GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Cured at Home.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By enclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Post office or through Wells Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union. All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets; for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus files, certificates, pretended patents, letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Postoffice Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the DAILY OREGONIAN. lytdsp
